Early Years Newsletter

It is with sadness that we must tell you that, due to personal circumstances, Miss Costa has resigned from her position in school. She will be leaving at the end of the month. We wish her well for the future

Phonics this week will see a concentration on w, x, z and qu as well as the tricky words I no go to the. We will be focussing on blending sounds to read simple words.

In our maths work we will be concentrating on the language and skill of addition using numbers to 10. It would be great if you can point out any 'real life' situation where addition is being used to your child as well as continuing to notice and play with numbers at every opportunity.

Please encourage your child's independence in undressing and dressing at every opportunity. We realise it is a slow process but the children really do need to master these essential skills.

We are very proud of all the children. They have coped so well with the changes over the last few weeks and are making some very real progress.

Thank you all for your support
Enjoy your weekend.
