

Little Hadham Primary School

26 January 2018

Early Years News

This weekend it is the RSPBs Big Garden Bird Watch. Details can be found online. People are encouraged to count how many birds they can see in their garden at any one time during a chosen hour. We are enclosing a tally chart that you can use if you wish, just for an activity within the Unit. If the children do any counting/recording, we would be very interested to see it.

As the more formal type teaching steps up a gear for the Ash children, it really becomes important that they have enough rest and sleep. This week many of the children have seemed sleepy and lethargic. Please support us by minimising social events during the week so that they come to school feeling lively and ready to learn.

Forest Friday - children need to wear OLD clothes, as many layers as possible, rather than one thick one, and their school shoes

On Tuesday 6th February at 12:15 we are holding a short meeting for the Saplings' parents to discuss how you can, most appropriately, support your child's mark making and early writing. We will be able to answer your questions and explain our approach. It will be held in the Sunshine Room. If any Ash parents would like, and are able, to attend please do.

Its time, once again, to ask for your voluntary contributions. We ask for £5 each term to support the little extra, special things that we use/provide for the children.

Have a great weekend.
The Early Years Team

*Rest
Relax
Refresh*

blue tit

robin

blackbird

magpie

crow

sparrow

pheasant

woodpecker

starling

