

Little Hadham Primary School

27 January 2017

Early Years News

A beautiful cold and frosty week has found the children exploring ice and its reversible nature.

This weekend it is the RSPBs Big Garden Bird Watch. Details can be found online but people are encouraged to count how many birds they can see in their garden at any one time during a chosen hour. If the children do any counting/recording we would be very interested to see it.

One or two practicalities

- Keep encouraging the children to do up their own zips they really are doing so well
- Remember that the children's water bottles should only have water in them
- If you arrive at school late it is important that the children are brought into school via the Office
- Can Ash children make sure that they have shorts and socks (girls) in their PE bags please

Next week is Chinese New Year. Our Busy Fingers' activities will all have a Chinese feel and the Unit will become very red.

Today we say GOODBYE to Mollie and thank her for all her hard work over the last two weeks. Hopefully we will see her again before too long!

Have a great weekend.

The Early Years Team