Early Years News

The children have really been enjoying the story of The Three Billy Goats Gruff this week. It launched a growing theme for us as we planted some juicy grass for the goats that we have here in school (plastic ones of course). We hope to be planting many more things over the next few weeks, as well as re-vamping our mud kitchen and enjoying our digging pit. The latter has now been beautifully re-filled with fresh top soil - many thanks go to Max Hector's Mum and Dad for giving us such a great gift, and to Mr Trundle for moving the soil from the field to the digging pit.

Ash's learning next week will be based around shape and size, making as much use of our interesting garden as we possibly can. We hope to be making new signs for the mud kitchen and garden, whilst still using numbers to 20, looking at 3D shapes, building on our bank of tricky words, writing on our own and using the computers.

Saplings will be busy counting, exploring bubbles and paint, rhyming, sharing and re-telling stories, making music and making the most of physical activities outside. They are also going to be talking about jobs that mummies and daddies do. Can you please make sure that they know what jobs you do or put a little note in their book bag. Thank you.

Enjoy the weekend - see you all next week! The Early Years Team
